

Colorado SUMMIT MAGAZINE

SUMMER/FALL 2009

A LASTING LEGACY

The Rich Heritage of the Summit Saga

RIDING THE SUMMIT
ALPINE LIVING

Complimentary Copy

Alpine Living

BY ROSALIE HILL ISOM

Consider the best of the high country for home improvements; do a little research of your own.

It is high time for home enthusiasts to go shopping.

The finest in alpine lifestyle and home style is available in Summit County. Area professionals specialize in home and interior design services and provide the necessary products that bring it all together.

Be it the kitchen or bath, pool and spa, new construction or remodel, the services and products for home improvement await in nearby Frisco, Silverthorne, Breckenridge, and Dillon.

PINNACLE MOUNTAIN HOMES, INC.

Pinnacle Mountain Homes appears to be leading the next generation of construction in Summit County. Their streamlined approach to efficient project management, attention to details, and aggressive sourcing makes them one of the best values in home building. And their clients seem to agree. As owner Chris Renner shares, “Every client we’ve ever worked for is on our reference list — every one. We refuse to have an unhappy client.”

Renner has raised the bar for streamlining the construction process. “The day we start a project, we can tell our clients the exact day we expect to be done, and we provide them with a list of every design decision and deadline for the entire project,” Renner explains.

Every project manager has an iPhone and a computer in the field, instantly accessible at any time. Constant relaying of photos and updates between the office and the field, subcontractors, and clients means a more efficient and enjoyable process, whether across town or across the world.

“We’re a management company that happens to be in construction,” Renner adds. “Our role is to create the highest quality home possible while judiciously managing our client’s time, money, and expectations. That’s our strength, and we do it well.”

520 South Main Street, Unit 3M, Breckenridge

970-453-0727

www.pinnaclemtnhomes.com

A team effort involving the client, architect, builder, and interior designer creates a successful residence. Pinnacle Mountain Home oversaw the building of this home.